

RS #2 Cleves, Parr, Seymour, Howard, Aragon, Boleyn

REMEMBER
I WROTE BOOKS, AND PSALMS, AND MEDITATIONS,
FOUGHT FOR FEMALE EDUCATION
SO ALL MY WOMEN COULD INDEPENDENTLY STUDY
SCRIPTURE
I EVEN GOT A WOMAN TO PAINT MY PICTURE
WHY CAN'T I TELL THAT STORY?
COS IN HISTORY
I'M FIXED AS ONE OF SIX
AND WITHOUT HIM, I DISAPPEAR, WE ALL DISAPPEAR

Start

(Underscored, unadulterated chat.)

→ BOLEYN. Wait, I don't get it

PARR. Okay look, why does anyone know who we are?

BOLEYN. ...My sixth finger.

ARAGON. Put it away, babe

PARR. No okay, let me put it a different way: who was Henry VII's wife?

BOLEYN. Um...I don't know?

PARR. (To other QUEENS, not to audience.) Anyone?

OTHERS. (Ad-libs.) No idea / Beats me / Hmm idk

PARR. Okay. Who was Henry VI's wife?

ALL. I don't know

PARR. And who was Henry V's wife?

ALL.

We don't know /

HOWARD.

Catherine de Valois, I mean
I don't know

PARR. The point is, the only reason any of these people have come here tonight is because once upon a time...

ARAGON. ...the same guy fell in love with us

PARR. Right

HOWARD. But wait...isn't there a bigger problem here?

ARAGON. The dissolution of the monasteries

HOWARD. No, I'm talking about us. Cos as soon as we get together as a group / ...

BOLEYN. Everyone notices Jane can't dance, yeah, you're so / right

HOWARD. That's exactly what I'm talking about...

SEYMOUR. Er -

HOWARD. ...we compare ourselves

SEYMOUR. Oh

HOWARD. And when we're 'the six wives' of Henry VIII, we each become just that:

ARAGON. 'One of' his wives

PARR. One of

ALL. (Despondently.)

SIX

BOLEYN. Omg I get it - since the only thing we have in common is our husband, grouping us is an inherently comparative act, and as such it necessarily elevates
a historical approach ingrained in patriarchal structures - yeah, I read.

PARR. So basically – we're stuck.

(They all make noises of frustration, culminating in:)

SEYMOUR. What a waste of time.

ARAGON. Well, guess there's not much we can do about it now

(An awkward silence. They metaphorically twiddle their thumbs and scuff their shoes, not sure what to do.)

HOWARD. Do you know what?

CLEVES. What?

HOWARD. I wish that like before we spent the whole show competing, we'd realised it would turn out to be such a mess

ALL. Yeah same / Hmm yeah / Ugh that would've been good

PARR. Yeah cos if we had realised, then we could've just done something else...like maybe even a fake competition to show everyone how messed up comparing us is

ARAGON. Ugh yeah and then we could've found some cool way to like, I don't know, 'reclaim our stories' and like 'all become the leading ladies'

BOLEYN. (Disappointed.) Awww we could have done that as a song!

SEYMOUR. Ugh that would have tied things together so neatly.

CLEVES. If only we'd thought of that before...

(All the QUEENS look to camera.)
